Promoting Best Practices for Banking Supervision

ASSOCIATION OF SUPERVISORS OF BANKS OF THE AMERICAS

EDITORIAL NOTE

Incorporation of technological tools for stronger supervision in the region

Global financial markets performed relatively well in 2021, despite some volatility leaps linked not only to the pandemic, but also to the increasing uncertainty about the inflation outlook and the likely reduction of monetary stimulus worldwide.

However, according to the IMF's World Economic Outlook, the world enters 2022 with global baseline risks tilted to the downside. Elevated inflation is expected to persist for longer than anticipated with ongoing supply chain disruptions. Furthermore, the conflict in Eastern Europe put important pressures to the world and to the region. Particularly, high commodity prices might spur inflation in Latin America and the Caribbean, which already faces an 8 percent average annual rate across five of the largest economies: Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Colombia, and Peru.

Moreover, the combination of global circumstances have raised important regulatory interest in terms of technology adoption in the financial sector. While the pandemic accelerated the adoption of digital financial technologies, the raise of novel instruments such as cryptoassets, and the appearance of new players, they also have increased the attention in the operational risk of entities and the systemic risks of the financial system, in general. What is more, as the conflict in Eastern Europe advances, there are heightened concerns about the cybersecurity risks and their spillovers throughout the globe.

In this context, the 67th edition of the Journal of the Banking Supervisor presents some relevant texts on adjustments, guidelines and concerns in banking regulation. The first section highlights some guidelines and principles recently published by ASBA that provide an overview of the lessons learned from the regulatory facilities implemented in the region's financial sector to address Covid-19 and a reference for the Association members on general considerations for cross-border memoranda of understanding. The second section, on the economic outlook for the region, includes some references to the topics of economic performance expectations for 2022 and progress in the implementation of international standards.

The research and analysis section shares documents on regulation and analysis of the payment infrastructures of some countries in the region, as well as the incorporation of technological issues in the central supervisory activities. Finally, in the last section, associate members share news and information on prudential and non-prudential financial regulation issued in their jurisdictions during the first quarter of the year. This compilation is an effort to broaden communication and understanding among the countries of the Americas on the approaches used to address different issues of joint interest in the area of financial regulation.

General considerations for a cross border memorandum of understanding between supervisory authorities

<https://bit.ly/3NURcsz>

The existence of financial groups operating in more than one jurisdiction, as well as the interrelationships between financial entities established in different jurisdictions have led several financial authorities to sign various forms of cooperation agreements, namely "cooperation agreements", "memoranda of understanding (MoU)" or "statements of cooperation".

In this context, the ASBA Technical Committee considered it appropriate to develop a set of principles and recommendations that could be used as a reference for ASBA members when updating their MoU or signing new ones with other jurisdictions with which they have not yet done so.

Revisions to market risk disclosure requirements

<https://bit.ly/36Wzmof>

In January 2019, the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision published a new version of the minimum capital requirements for market risk, replacing an earlier version of the standard published in January 2016. The new version considers the introduction of a "traffic light" approach for capital requirements as a consequence of the profit and loss attribution (PLA) test for banks that use the internal models approach (IMA). Another significant change is the introduction of the simplified standardised approach (SSA).

World economic Outlook: Rising caseloads, a disrupted recovery, and higher inflation

<https://bit.ly/37gTCRg>

Adverse developments since the October WEO mean that the global economy is entering 2022 in a weaker position than anticipated. News of the Omicron variant led to increased mobility restrictions and financial market volatility at the end of 2021. Supply disruptions have continued to weigh on activity. Meanwhile, inflation has been higher and more broad-based than anticipated, particularly in the United States. Adding to these pressures, the retrenchment in China's real estate sector appears to be more drawn out and the recovery in private consumption is weaker than previously expected.

Last year ended with incipient but fragile economic recoveries in most Caribbean economies. Relatively low vaccination rates remain a concern in the six countries covered by the Caribbean Country Department of the IDB. The sharp rise in commodity prices bolster prospects for commodity exporters in the region, but they also dampen prospects for tourism dependent economies. This edition of the Caribbean Quarterly Bulletin provides a "Year in Review in Graphs" for the overall region and each of the six countries. Global recovery will slow due to waning political support, continued outbreaks of COVID-19 and persistent supply bottlenecks. In contrast to advanced economies, output in emerging market and developing economies will remain well below pre-pandemic trends over the forecast period. The outlook is clouded by several downside risks, including further outbreaks of Covid-19, the possibility of a de-anchoring of inflation expectations, and financial stress amid record debt levels.

Recent developments in lending to non-financial corporations: demand and supply factors

<https://bit.ly/3iHpBMO>

The financing of non-financial companies through credit provided by resident banks has shown little dynamism since the summer of 2020. This evolution following the impact of the health crisis has occurred in a context of weak demand, relative stability in the supply of bank funds and a rebound in the use of fixed-income securities financing. Analysis using granular information from companies and banks confirms that this loss of dynamism in bank financing is mainly due to demand factors.

Comisión para el Mercado Financiero, Chile

1. CMF presenta el Informe de Endeudamiento 2021

El objetivo de este estudio, ya en su octava versión, es generar una radiografía del endeudamiento de las personas naturales en Chile. El informe considera datos reportados periódicamente por las instituciones supervisadas por la Comisión. Comparado con igual periodo del año anterior, se observa una disminución de la deuda representativa y una corrección a la baja en los indicadores de carga financiera y apalancamiento.

Enlace: <https://bit.ly/3NOwCtz>

2. Comisión informa la publicación de los indicadores de adecuación de capital de la banca según los estándares de Basilea III.

En el contexto de la implementación de los estándares de Basilea III, la CMF inició a contar del presente año la publicación mensual de los indicadores de adecuación de capital (IAC) aplicando las nuevas definiciones que contempla la Ley General de Bancos. El denominador del nuevo IAC incorpora el riesgo de mercado y el riesgo operacional a la medición de los Activos Ponderados por Riesgo (APR), cuyo cálculo hasta antes de esta modificación, solo consideraba el riesgo de crédito.

Superintendencia General de Entidades Financieras (SUGE), Costa Rica

1. Simplificación e integración regulatoria.

Mediante esta reforma regulatoria se integran y unifican en un mismo cuerpo normativo, disposiciones sobre Administración de riesgos específicos que se encontraban desarrolladas en regulaciones separadas. Es un cambio a la estructura de regulación de Costa Rica, que busca darle más integralidad y consistencia. En materia de administración de riesgo de liquidez, se mantuvo como regulación separada únicamente lo referente al cálculo del Indicador de Cobertura de Liquidez, y lo correspondiente a Administración de este riesgo, se incluyó en este proyecto de integración regulatoria.

I. Mediante artículo 8 de la sesión 1712-2022 del 31 de enero de 2022, el CONASSIF dispuso en firme:

A. Modificar el Acuerdo SUGE 2-10, “Reglamento sobre Administración Integral de Riesgos”, de acuerdo con el siguiente texto:

1. Modificar el marco de considerandos del Acuerdo SUGE 2-10 mediante la adición de los aspectos que sustentan cada uno de los capítulos sobre administración de riesgos.
2. Modificar el Artículo 3.
3. Agregar el “TÍTULO IV. ADMINISTRACIÓN DEL RIESGO DE MERCADO, TASA DE INTERÉS Y TIPO DE CAMBIO”
4. Agregar el “TÍTULO V ADMINISTRACIÓN DEL RIESGO DE LIQUIDEZ”
5. Agregar el “TÍTULO VI. ADMINISTRACIÓN DEL RIESGO OPERATIVO”
6. Disposiciones Transitorias

Regulation information, first quarter of 2022

Banque de la République d'Haiti (BRH)

1. Circular 121: about Electronic payment services (Effective date: December 6, 2021)

This circular defines the conditions under which institutions approved by the BRH can offer electronic payment services to the public. It establishes the services that can be provided, the technical conditions to be met, the standards for the operation and management of funds held on behalf of their clients, the licensing criteria of these institutions, questions relating to anti-money laundering standards and the responsibilities of a new category of players in the financial system, namely electronic payment service providers.

Link: <https://bit.ly/3LF3nas>

2. Circular 122: about the transmission of financial statements of non-banking financial institutions (Effective date: February 1st, 2022)

The circular responds to an important regulatory gap. Since the publication of the 2012 law regulating the financial sector, BRH has obtained financial information from non-banking financial institutions upon written request. From now on, it is mandatory to transmit quarterly and annual financial statements by all other categories of financial institutions other than banks, according to the prescribed deadlines and formats.

Link: <https://bit.ly/3j6OAtc>

3. Circular 123: about minimum share capital (Effective date: February 1st, 2022)

The circular modifies, on one hand, the minimum share capital for:

- banks from 60 million gourdes (according to article 42 of the Financial law of May 14, 2012) to 200 million gourdes;
- financial development companies from 5 million gourdes (according to article 4 of the law of August 30, 1982) to 100 million gourdes.

On the other hand, it establishes the minimum share capital for:

- leasing and credit card institutions at 100 million gourdes;
- investment companies at 100 million gourdes;
- factoring and trust companies at 50 million gourdes;
- money transfer institutions at 15 million gourdes.

4. Circular 124: about post-licensing conditions for the modification of financial institutions situation (Effective date: January 13, 2022)

The 2012 Financial law provides for different cases where a financial institution must request the approval of the BRH (amendment of statutes, capital increase or reduction, merger, sale of goodwill, etc.) or inform it of a situation (change in management, external auditor, etc.). However, the circular defines the situations in which financial institutions must inform or request the authorization of BRH to perform relevant changes and determines the related deadlines for these requests.
